Completing the Circle

Here we are again, a year older and continually impressed by the success that our clients and their families experience. As a team, we feel privileged to meet and work along side our clients in their efforts to resume life again. We are very inspired by their efforts, determination, and focus on the future. Not a day goes by without someone accomplishing a difficult task and we applaud them!! You will read several stories in this edition of Onward and Upward that only give you the tip of the iceberg. What you don't see are the hours of determined work on the part of our clients/friends and their support.

We have chosen the circle as part of the theme of this newsletter. The continuous circle has many symbolic effects in our world. It is a picture of completion, continuity, consistency, and commitment (in the case of the wedding band). In so many ways, the circle is also a fitting symbol of the rehabilitation continuum.

It all begins and ends with a related point. The survivor of a neurologic injury or disease is supported along the continuum until they reach a point, in which they can give back to others who will benefit from their support, thus COMPLETING THE CIRCLE. Our rehab team considers this happening a measure of success for the recovering person.

Because we believe in the importance of these surrounding activities, we have assisted in the development of several NEW HAPPENINGS around CNS. In this issue, you will read about the OURS group and how a core of committed survivors have

OUR MISSION:

The mission of the Center for Neurorehabilitation Services is to provide outpatient, community based, comprehensive neurorehabilitation and neurodevelopmental therapy through a transdisciplinary approach to care. We provide innovative, collaborative, supportive treatment that is focused on the needs of the individual client, resulting in increased independence and quality of life.

Announcing CNS Foundation

The Center for Neurorehabilitation Services Foundation (CNS Foundation) is a Colorado Nonprofit Corporation and federal tax-exempt 501(c)(3) organization that was recently developed to address two needs.

- Provide financial resources to facilitate the recovery and community integration of individuals with neurological disorders who do not have adequate financial resources.
- Provide a base for research that addresses assessment, rehabilitation, and community reintegration in these individuals.

In these times of reduced resources through insurance, individuals with neurological impairments often do not have the ability to receive the direct therapy services or the completion of independent community reintegration. We are looking for funding to support these goals.

Tax exempt donations can be made to the CNS Foundation, in care of the Center for Neurorehabilitation Services, to support these purposes. We welcome your inquiries about estate gift planning to the CNS FOUNDATION.
